We are following all official government guidance and like many other organizations, we are also:

- Rescheduling site visits.
- Reducing face-to-face meetings in favour of virtual meetings.
- Encouraging employees to exercise caution, take all appropriate measures, and we have advised that if they are displaying any symptoms to self-isolate and follow the latest NHS guidance.

There are no cases of Coronavirus affecting Sasco Sauces employees at this time. We are constantly monitoring internal reports of any flu-like symptoms that could be linked to COVID-19 outbreak.

These measures are temporary and aimed to prevent the spread of the virus, shorten its impact and ensure the health and safety of our employees. We will continue to adapt our approach as needed as the situation evolves and additional government guidance is issued.

We would also like to assure our customers that there are no concerns with regards to the availability of the raw materials supplied from any country affected by this situation. Therefore, we don't expect any delays in our delivery schedule and all production is carried out as normal.
